HOW TO BECOME AN EXAMINER

Fellows and Honorary Fellows of the European Board of General Surgery who wish to be considered as examiners for the General Surgery Division (UEMS) are welcome to express their interest.

They should be familiar with the goals and procedures of the General Surgery Division of the UEMS.

Applications should be directed through the UEMS Office to the Executive, General Surgery Division.

In their application letter, surgeons should state their qualifications, specialty and sub-specialty interest, teaching, training, and examining experience.

They may then be invited as observers during one of the section examinations. On this occasion, observers will be entirely responsible for their own expenses, including travel and accommodation.

After this first experience as observers, they may be invited by the Executive to join the Court of Examiners for subsequent sessions.

New examiners not already in possession of the FEBS will be awarded the Honorary FEBS General Surgery. This Honorary Qualification is no longer conferred in response to a proposal or an application.

Selection of examiners for a particular examination is at the discretion the Chairperson of the Examination and Board.
